

Ways of assisting, volunteering and donating to emergency architects australia

1. Corporate Members:

1. Yearly or monthly discretionary tax deductible donation (see Sponsorship Proposal)
2. Pro bono assistance either in-kind, for projects in Australia (for example report writing, drafting, design time or technical advice))
3. Workplace giving – staff regular donation (say 10c/person/week) to EAA as the charity of their choice.
4. Form a long-term company Foundation with a social responsibility focus and make EAA your charity.
5. Spontaneous volunteer register: organize an internal team of architects/engineers/other construction specialists who can be mobilized immediately for a risk assessment after an emergency. This means allocating both some qualified pro bono time and monetary contribution (for airfares/accommodation) on a yearly basis for involvement in the risk assessment (1 – 4 weeks depending on the emergency type)
6. Or do the same but for the reconstruction phase of the projects but on a longer time frame (1 - 6 months). In this case the company would guarantee the employee a return to their employment contract on return but would not have to pay the employee, or provide airfares, insurances or accommodation.

2. Sponsors

1. see EAA Sponsorship proposal
2. Also providing in kind materials or expertise either in the office or for the field.
3. Sponsoring events (trivia nights, Sydney Architecture Festival and EAA exhibitions)

3. Donors and philanthropists outside the field of construction

1. see EAA sponsorship proposal
2. in kind donations or direct donations.
3. Sponsoring events

4. Members –

1. Field volunteers (see website for details)
2. Local volunteers either in EAA office or from your home or office assisting with various projects of your choice where drafting or report writing services are required by the field teams, or as a one stop shop construction and architectural advice or network contacts, providing design guidance and assistance to the field teams.

3. Attending/volunteering to help for events
